Colour/Further information

Colour is Key when packing for Africa: All our safari clothing is neutral in colour, with the classic safari colours (khaki, stone) the sensible option to choose. The great news is that by purchasing our clothing you will still be able to look stylish in the bush as we have used modern cuts and colours when designing or selecting the clothes for our range. Your core khaki or stone clothes can now be worn with Taupe, Pecan or Cadet colours to allow you to mix and match your wardrobe, even while on safari. These colours are still highly suitable colours to wear while on safari.

Colours to Avoid: By sticking to our range you will pack the correctly coloured clothes, but there are colours to avoid. Please make sure that you do not pack safari clothing that is blue or black in colour if you are going to an area with tsetse flies as they are attracted to both colours (and their bites are very painful). For walking in the bush, white should be avoided as it stands out against the muted brown and green tones of Africa. For the majority of African countries please do not pack camouflage clothing.
